

ACTIVITY 4: MAKE YOUR OWN SIGN

Make your own sign. Imagine that you could join the children shown in the illustration on the front and back cover of the book and inside the book. Design a sign you would like to hold up. Follow these steps:

- First, read the signs on the book cover and inside the book. What do you notice about them? List your findings. Here are some examples to get you started:
 - Signs have limited text, usually between two and five words.
 - Some signs tell what people should do. Others tell what not to do.
- Second, decide what you want to say about climate change.
- Third, make an original sign. Use color to emphasize important words.
